DETAILED ACTION

1. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it is less than fifty words.

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 4, 6-7, 9-10, 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tomlin et al (US006488551B1).

Tomlin's device discloses a terminal connector (10, 12 or 110, 112) for connecting electrical circuit to pre-existing relay (24), the relay including terminal blade (24a), the connector comprising: a generally planar body, and first and second connector tabs (16 or 116) formed in the planar body, said first and second displaceable tabs being spaced apart to define a tab slot there between, the tab slot at 10e or 110e formed 16c or 116c being adapted for receiving the terminal blade (24a) of the relay, whereupon the tabs engage the terminal blades; a substrate carrier engaging with the terminal connector; a first and second folding tabs (16 ) as being the folding tabs (see fig. 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3, 5, 8, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable Tomlin et al (US006488551B1).

In regard to claims 3, 8, Tomlin's device discloses the aforementioned limitations, but fails to disclose the size of the slot. It would have been obvious of matter of design choice to have the tab slot less than the blade terminal width, since such modification would have involved a mere change in size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

In regard to claim 5, 13, Tomlin's device discloses the aforementioned limitations, but fails to disclose the tab second end as being curled. It would have been obvious of matter of design choice to have the tab second end as being curled, since such modification would have involved a mere change in shape of a component. A change in shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Dailey, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1976).

Art Unit: 2839

5. Claims 2 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable Tomlin et al (US006488551B1) in view of Seo et al (US 20030017727A1).

Tomlin's device discloses the aforementioned limitations, but fails to disclose the wire connection. Seo's device discloses the planar body with the wire connecting features (see figs. 8A, 8B, 9: see wire post and wire). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill at the time the invention was made to add the wire connecting features in order add other components to Tomlin's device.
